The sergeant could promise nothing positive for Christmas. There will be a moderately cold wave to-morrow, and Monday will be warmer. Christmas, he thinks, will be a little colder than to-day. SERGT. HUGH CLARK

Clark was retired, nevertheless, on haif pay by the Commissioners, who stated that they considered this punishment adequate in view of his long and faithful service.

Four years ago, when the grip raged, he was stricken. The disease developed into pneumonia, which so weakened his lungs that he had frequent hemorrhages. Yesterday he took outdoor exercise and appeared to be better. At midnight he felt a choking sensation, and Dr. McDonaid was called, but he died from sufficiation. "From the knowledge which I have gained of the inner workings ofthe Police Department," said he, "I long ago to came to the conclusion that Commissioner Martin was a thoroughly honest man, and I don't believe that he ever got one dishonest dollar since he has been a Police Commissioner or before. I know that Mr. Goff shares this belief, or has shared it with me."

Schmittberger's confession, the question which is everywhere being asked is, Will the high off-cials who were directly implicated in the testimony given yesterday, be summoned before the Committee before the final adjournment is taken next week? The counsel for the Committee had to make a vigorous fight for further hearings at the close of yesterday's session, for it was shown by the position taken by Chairman Lexow and Senator O'Connect. nor, that the leading members of the Committee were in favor of bringing the investigation to a close then and there. They declared that the evidence of the corrupt condition of affairs in the Police Department had been sufficiently Police Department had been sufficiently set forth to enable them to make their report to the Legislature, and that all that was necessary was a few executive sessions in which the results of the investigation could be summed up and the conclusions arrived at preceive. the conclusions arrived at properly ar-
